Emma: That's OK, Kenta.
Kenta: I was at the stadium and didn't notice it.
Emma: Oh, I see. You mean the baseball stadium in the next town?
Kenta: No, I was at the soccer stadium near the amusement park. I watched a soccer game with my brother in the stadium.
Emma: That's good. Was it a good game?
Kenta: Yes, I enjoyed watching the game very much!
- 4 Emma: Kenta, the concert will start at 2 o'clock, right? I'm looking forward to seeing the musician!
Kenta: Me, too, Emma. Well, let's eat lunch before the concert.
Emma: OK. What do you want to eat?
Kenta: What about spaghetti? My brother said spaghetti at a restaurant near the station is good. He said I should try it.
Emma: Well, I ate spaghetti yesterday.
Kenta: I see. Then, how about curry?
Emma: Oh, there's a good curry restaurant near the concert hall. I visited there with my host family.
Kenta: Sounds good.
Emma: Oh, but I don't know when it is open. It may be closed today.
Kenta: Then, let's check the website of the restaurant.
Emma: Yes, and if the curry restaurant is not open today, let's find a restaurant nearby.
Kenta: OK!

Question 1: Who told Kenta about spaghetti at a restaurant near the station?

Question 2: What will Emma and Kenta do first after this conversation?

5 Hello, I'm Kenta. During the summer vacation, I traveled to Germany. I went to see my uncle who lives there. During my stay, I found some interesting things there. I want to talk about one of them.

My uncle lives in a small city and we walked around the city on my first day. The area at the center of the city was especially nice. There were many old buildings and there were various stores. It was Saturday and the area was busy with many people. It was fun to walk around the area, so I visited the same area again on the next day. Then, the same area looked different. It was about noon, but no stores were open. My uncle told me that most stores are closed on Sunday in Germany. He said that one reason for that is to let workers have enough rest. When I first saw closed stores, I thought that was not convenient. However, soon, I found it was very quiet and I could enjoy viewing many old buildings. I like the area when it is busy with many people, but I also like the same area when it is quiet.

Question 1: What did Kenta do during the summer vacation?

Question 2: What is the thing Kenta said?

6 Emma: Kenta, have you decided your research topic? We have to do research on something about our city, right?

Kenta: That's right, Emma. My topic is devices that local companies developed.

Emma: Sounds interesting! Have you started to collect information about them?

Kenta: Yes, I have. To learn about them, my teacher recommended the science museum in the city to me. So, I went there and could find useful information for my research.

Emma: Oh, I didn't know that we can get information about local companies there.

Kenta: It provides various information about our city.

Emma: Well, I want to do research on things living in the nearby lake. Can I learn about them at the science museum?

Kenta: Oh, that's a good place to learn about them. There is a special section about things living in the lake.

Emma: Oh, that's great.

Kenta: The science museum also keeps some kinds of fish which live in the lake, so you can actually see those fish at the science museum.

Emma: That's nice! I'll go there this weekend.
